

Design Diagrams:

Use Case Diagram:

A use case diagram is a graphical depiction of a user's possible interactions with a system. The following two diagrams show the major actions of all primary and secondary users and how they interact with the system. The first diagram shows the actions and interactions that happens during login and registering to an account. The second diagrams describes all the actions and interactions between users and the system the the whole website have other than login and registration.

